BACK TO SCHOOL. Tuesday, August 27 wasn't just the first day of school for second graders Anthony Castellano, center, and Brendan Ahern, right, who both attend the Shawsheen Elementary School in Wilmington. It was also the first day for music specialist Christopher Desjardins, left, who is beginning his first year as a teacher within the Wilmington school system.

Wilmington Superintendent of Schools

O'Donnell will move on come June

By JAKE PETERSON

WILMINGTON - Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, the Superintendent of the Wilmington School System, has announced that she will not seek to renew her contract when it expires at the end of the 2002-2003 academic year.

Superintendent O'Donnell formally made her announcement to the public during the School Committee meeting that was held on Wednesday, August 21.

According to O'Donnell, the year of 2003 was set as the time of her departure while she was negotiating her present contract. When O'Donnell departs in June of next year, it will bring to an end a ten-year run as superintendent of the Wilmington school system.

"When you are on top of your game, it is time to look to move on," says O'Donnell about the timing of her departure. "I think we are on top of our game."

Just do not think of O'Donnell as a lame duck. She has many plans and goals for her final year at the helm.

"We will have an all-out effort to strengthen curriculum and formalize curriculum guidelines," says O'Donnell. "We will draft a curriculum document that is user-friendly for parents."

The Wilmington Educational Foundation has a new set of officers, who are led by their president, School Committee member Steven Peterson. O'Donnell is very optimistic about the future of the educational foundation. The foundation will find new ways to raise funds for school supplies, equipment and the like.

Olin oversight

Selectmen appoint Community Advisory Panel

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - At a special meeting on Monday, August 26, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen officially appointed a new Community Advisory Panel that will oversee the progress made by the Olin Chemical Corporation as it continues to clean the contamination at its property at 51 Eames Street. The panel will also review issues in the community that relate to the quality and safety of the town's water supply.

The appointment followed approximately two and a half hours of discussion, during which residents, officials and visitors from Woburn made known what they hope will be included among the tasks to be faced by the committee. One of those tasks will include the determination of whether the town needs to hire an environmental consultant to assist the panel.

In addition to scores of residents, Representative James Miceli, Senator Bruce Tarr and members of the Concerned Citizens Network were among those present. So too were such Woburn residents as Mayor John Curran, Alderman Donald Galante and activists from the Woburn Neighborhood Association.

Olin representative Steven Morrow attended the meeting and presented to the audience his company's plans for the formation of the citizens' advisory panel. He was joined by Christopher Pyott, a representative of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). While Olin is not the sole contributor to the contamination found on its property, the company has been charged with the responsibility of ridding the land of hazardous chemicals. The DEP is overseeing the company's efforts.

At the start of the meeting, Morrow outlined to selectmen and activists his company's proposal for the formation of a panel. Morrow detailed what would be the purpose, function and format of the committee. He also explained the process by which the chemical company could secure a facilitator who could work between Olin and the town to develop the committee's agenda, guide its discussions, develop a consensus on issues and keep the minutes of all meetings.

Pyott told the selectmen and residents that the decision to form a panel and hire a consultant was "truly in your hands." He urged the town to define what should be the expertise of such a consultant and what he or she will be asked to do. Indeed, the responsibilities of a consultant will be among the first topics that will be addressed by the new committee. Pyott also noted that the DEP has successfully worked with other towns, such as Concord and Weymouth, that have formed panels as well.

Many members of the audience, including Representative Miceli, were surprised and perplexed by the attendance of Morrow and Pyott at the meeting because they had figured that the town would be forming the committee independently

Inspector General's Office

More RMLD abuses alleged

By PAUL FEELY

Members of the Reading Board of Selectmen and the Board of Commissioners for the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) are in possession of a letter from the Office of the Massachusetts Inspector General that details possible violations of the state's conflict of interest law by certain RMLD vendors and employees.

During a meeting last week, Selectman Chairperson Camille Anthony said that her board had met with RMLD Board Chairman William J. Hughes Jr. during an executive session and had discussed the issues detailed in the letter. According to Anthony, Hughes and his Board were to meet with the Selectmen on the topic this week.

According to Hughes, he and his board have immediately begun investigating the details outlined in the letter.

"We are taking the allegations very seriously and will take action immediately," said Hughes.

The new allegations come as the Town of Reading looks to recover from charges made by the Inspector General last December, in which lavish spending by then-RMLD General Manager Len Rucker and other employees was detailed. Such expenditures were allegedly charged to the company's credit card.

An investigation was launched, and Rucker resigned as General Manager and was replaced by current Acting General Manager Vin Cameron. Two separate audits of the RMLD were conducted, one by a firm chosen by the town of Reading and one by a firm chosen by the department itself. The newly-formed Ad Hoc RMLD Governance Committee has just begun deliberations about what management hierarchy should exist at the RMLD in the future.

The new allegations involve possible violations of M.G.L. c. 268A, the Commonwealth conflict of interest law, over a time period from January, 1998 to December, 2001. The letter details the actions of two vendors, Power Line Models, Inc. (PLM) and R.W. Beck, Inc. (Beck), but states that the concerns raised by the investigation affect all RMLD vendors.

M.G.L. c. 268A states: "Whoever otherwise than as provided by law for the proper discharge of official duty, directly or indirectly, gives, offers or promises anything of substantial value to any present or former state, county or municipal employee...for or because of any official act performed or to be performed by such an employee...shall be punished by a fine of not more than three thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than two years, or both."

It also states, in part: "No

Labor Day Weekend

Authorities emphasize traffic safety during holiday

By JAKE PETERSON

WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY - As Labor Day Weekend approaches, local authorities are preparing themselves for what is traditionally a busy occasion for travelers and others who want to bid farewell to the summer in style. Specifically, local police departments have their sights set on traffic safety.

The Wilmington and Tewksbury Police Departments are joining a statewide police effort across Massachusetts to reduce traffic accidents over the holiday weekend and for the back-to-school period. They are doing so thanks to a Governor's Highway Safety Bureau (GHSB) grant that is in effect through September 20, 2002.

"Our extra enforcement efforts will seek to reduce aggressive and impaired driving as well as speeding in school zones and throughout our community," says Wilmington Police Chief Bernard Nally. "We will place special emphasis on the state law requiring everyone to buckle up."

According to Tewksbury Chief of Police John Mackey, his department will also add extra staffing and patrols.

"The normal staff increases for that weekend," says Chief Mackey.

The Governor's Highway

Safety Bureau calls for caution from those who have parties and weekend barbecues marked on their calendars.

"We strongly urge those using Massachusetts roadways over the Labor Day Weekend to obey posted speed limits, to plan extra travel time to account for traffic, to not drink and drive, and to make sure everyone is properly buckled up," says Nancy L. Luther, the Executive Director of the GHSB.

Last year, eight fatalities occurred on the roadways of Massachusetts during the Labor Day Weekend. Such a statistic made for a troubling increase from that weekend the

Peabody shoots for a hole-in-one in Florida

By JAKE PETERSON

WILMINGTON - Ever noticed how well your groceries get packed when you shop at Market Basket on Main Street? Your boxes and cans never fall out because Wilmington resident and grocery bagger Keith Peabody is always on the look out for a hole-in-one. Peabody's hole-in-one pursuit and his talent for hitting the golf ball are taking him to the sunshine state.

Peabody is headed to the National Special Olympics this September, which is being held in Port St. Lucie, Florida. Peabody was chosen for the individual competition based on his low scores on local and regional courses.

The competition at the Special Olympics will begin on September 15 and will run for three days. The event will be divided into two groups. The first competition will involve partners, in which partners on the golf course alternate shots. The second competition will involve individuals. Last year, Peabody earned a silver medal at the partner competition, missing the gold by one stroke. This year, Peabody's improved level of play puts him into the individual competition.

Peabody, in his new role as an individual golfer at this competition, is the only Massachusetts resident in the individual group of competitors.

The 35-year-old has been playing teeing up for 20 years and has really grown as a golfer.

"It gives me a great reason to

The Jaycees poured and poured

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - A lot can change in 40 years. When Route 93 was first built in the 1950s, there were rest areas on either side of the highway, just north of the Concord Street exit. During the late 1950s and 1960s, an organization was active in both Wilmington and Tewksbury called the Jaycees. Originally named the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees was a group for men under the age of 35. They did many good things, but were best known for their Operation Coffee Watch on Labor Day weekend. The rest areas were eliminated about 30 years ago, after having become hangouts for unsavory characters. And with the rest areas gone, so too went the coffee operation. Here is the story from the Town Crier, September 6, 1962.

The Wilmington - Tewksbury Jaycee Coffee Watch on Route 93 in North Wilmington was the shining light of the Labor Day weekend, not only for Wilmington but for the entire New England area. The two clubs were responsible for serving over 2,000 cups of coffee during the four days of the holiday weekend to weary and thankful motorists, up to and including the governor of the Commonwealth. Chaired by Art Casato of Tewksbury and Dave Fillo of Wilmington, the effort was supplied by donations from merchants and from practically every coffee manufacturer in the business.

Jaycees serving coffee on Sunday night were astounded to have a big car pull up. From it emerged two burly state troopers, followed by Governor John A. Volpe.

The governor was on an inspection trip over the highways. He not only had a cup of coffee — he told the Jaycees that the sight of their lights was the most welcome thing he had seen on the highways during his entire trip.

Another visitor was Frank Giles, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Safety. Like the governor, the commissioner was on an inspection tour. This was the second year of the Jaycee Operation Coffee Break, last year's operations having been solely by the Tewksbury club. During the first two days of the holiday weekend, the coffee was served in the northbound rest area, between Concord Street and Route 62. In the second half of the weekend, with thousands of motorists homeward bound, the coffee was offered on the other side of the highway in the southbound rest area.

Electric lights were strung up by the Jaycees, with the power coming from Civil Defense generators from both Wilmington and Tewksbury and towed by a truck from the Wilmington Water Department. Several hundred feet up from the rest area, signs were posted, powered by generators, advising motorists of the free coffee ahead. The signs, it turned out, were the key to the entire operation, for they warned the motorists in time to allow them to slow down and enter the rest area.

The proof of the value of the signs was proven on the last night when someone stole one of the signs, and business dropped off to a very large degree.

On the first night the Jaycees gave out about 350 cups of coffee. On the second night, the number was 400. The third night saw a total of over 600. On the fourth night, the number dropped off to about 400. Business wasn't too good on that last night. In fact, instead of working until 2 a.m., the boys closed up shop at 1:30 a.m. The few vacationists who were still on the road were speeding by, with no sign to alert them, and the Jaycees were unable to serve any more coffee.

The four-day exercise of giving coffee to tired motorists was the effort of 21 men. From Tewksbury were Art Casato, chairman, Art Chaff, President Alan Hunter, Gerald Hurley, Joe Duffina, Earle Young, Norman Gay, Ed Adams, Bruce Carpenter and Paul Trembley. Wilmington Jaycees were Dave Fillo, chairman, Bill MacKinnon, Marty Lesnik, George Quinn, Paul Doerfler, Lloyd Bender, Charles Burt, President George Lingentel, Ted Johnson and Milt Bradford.

WCTV membership drive week

WILMINGTON - September is Membership Month at Wilmington Community Television and a variety of special events are planned during the week of September 23-26 to give the community an idea of how their local television station has evolved and tripled in membership in the last seven years. In addition to viewing television program highlights, members are encouraged to visit the facility, see all of our latest equipment and celebrate our anniversary.

This year, a variety of activities are planned during the week beginning with the Open House on Monday. Come and meet members, tour the facility, meet the staff, and hear about many of the terrific community programs produced at WCTV. You'll have an opportunity to find out about these community resources available to you. If you want to learn to produce your own community program, WCTV offers you the training and opportunity to have your program shown on public access Channel 9.

If you ever thought about exploring community television resources, this is the ideal time. During this month, new members can join for only $10 for their first year, instead of $15; and new member organizations can join for only $30, for their first year instead of the current rate of $50.

Tuesday, September 24, is deemed, "Sports Night," and will feature hosts of several local sports programs.

On Wednesday, Sept. 25, WCTV's "Organization Night," features representatives from many of the organizations within the community who are WCTV organizational members. A representative from each member organization will have an opportunity to speak briefly about their groups in a live program shown from 7 to 8 p.m. on Channel 9.

On Thursday, Sept. 26 "Youth Programming Night," will be held from 7 to 8 featuring television programs produced by and for kids.

LEAVE YOUR IRA TO THE GRANDCHILDREN?

Who's the beneficiary of your IRA? Ideally, your spouse, who can roll over the account and name new beneficiaries. If that option is not available, the usual choice is to name one's children, who can take the distribution over their own life expectancies.

But what if your children don't need the money? They still must take minimum distributions each year and, at least with a regular IRA, pay tax on them. In time, this extra cash may be subject to estate taxes when your children die. Leaving the IRA to the grandkids gives the account more years to grow tax-deferred or, if it's a Roth IRA, tax-free. The results can build well beyond the cost of the generation-skipping transfer tax.

Another possibility: keeping your children as beneficiaries, and the grandchildren as contingent beneficiaries; those who don't need or want the money have 9 months to disclaim it in favor of their children. A trust can stretch the funds further.

Financial decisions call for financial knowhow. We can help at

Hot Topic, Cool Heads

We the people.

If only we had a dime for every time that phrase has been spoken by residents in town who have grown disenchanted with their local government. We'd be rich folks.

It has been a long, hot summer in Wilmington, and, yes, that goes to say in addition to the record number of scorches that have sent even devoted heatseekers ducking for cover underneath the air conditioner. The season started with an aggressive fight over where a new library should be built and it has ended with a debate about what must be done to rid the community of contamination once and for all.

The difference between the two topics has been night and day. While the library limbo brought out the worst in quite a few people on both sides, the contamination controversy has brought out the best. The formation of a Community Advisory Panel during a special selectmen meeting on Monday night provides evidence in support of that.

The newly formed committee has in its charge a few responsibilities that have already taken shape. For starters, panel members will oversee the efforts made by the Olin Chemical Corporation to clean the contamination at its property on Eames Street. Second of all, the members will determine whether an environmental consultant should be hired to assist the panel. If they deem such a specialist necessary, then they must outline the scope of the consultant's tasks. And, thirdly, the advisory panel will keep an eye on the safety, quality and quantity of the town's overall water supply.

The idea to form the Community Advisory Panel is a good one, so much so that some might be tempted to forget that it was first proposed by the management at Olin. During the meeting on Monday night, those who were surprised to see in attendance representatives from Olin and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection were right to be rubbed the wrong way. Steven Morrow, a representative for Olin who is a pleasant, polite and soft-spoken man with a very tough job to do, took people aback when he presented to the audience his company's plans of organizing and facilitating the panel.

On one level, Morrow's presentation could be seen as a conscientious effort from Olin to keep working closely with the community. On the flip side, though, it is reasonable to understand and feel the umbrage taken by such residents as Selectman Michael McCoy. Selectman McCoy stated that he was "dumbfounded" that the management at Olin would presume to tell the town how to form and run such a panel. Indeed, a current of corporate arrogance could be detected beneath the surface of Olin's proposed guidelines for the formation and operation of the panel. The Board of Selectmen and the residents in the audience were smart to assert themselves and work independently towards the goal of creating the new panel.

And right there you have your proof that, unlike the battle of wills that was fought on the front of the library debate, the pursuit to purge all property of contamination has brought out the best in activists and town officials alike.

The Concerned Citizens Network, the Woburn Neighborhood Association, Representative James Miceli and other residents should be applauded for compelling town officials to act with more attention and effort. The Board of Selectmen and Town Manager Michael Caira should be commended for working with the activists towards a shared goal. Specifically, Selectman Robert Palmer should be singled out and praised for stepping up to the plate and knocking the ball out of the park not once, but twice. It was Selectman Palmer who on August 12 urged the scheduling of the special meeting on Monday night, and he was the first board member to volunteer to serve on the advisory panel.

We the people.

Such a phrase has been repeated so many times this summer that it is uncomfortably close to becoming a cringe-inducing cliché. As the debate surrounding the library demonstrated, there is danger in taking that passage from the United States Constitution and using it as one's own mantra. As the formation of the Community Advisory Panel has proven, however, there is progress and accomplishment when it is understood that "We the People" encompasses all folks in town, residents and officials alike.

As September 11 approaches

With the first anniversary of September 11 just two weeks away, The Town Crier is hoping that readers will share their thoughts as they reflect on the tragedy of that day and the year that has passed since. Where were you when you first heard the news of the terrorist attacks? How have the events of that moment in history affected your life in the months that have followed? What changes have you observed in the community and the world around you? How do you feel about the manner with which the United States has pursued its war on terror? In what direction would you like to see our country head?

In the weeks ahead, we encourage you to write to us and share your personal stories and views of September 11. Please keep your letter under 250 words, and feel free to email it to towncrier1@aol.com, fax it to 978-658-2266 or mail it to or stop by 104 Lowell Street in Wilmington and hand it to a member of our staff. Thank you.

Tewksbury superintendent looks to the school year ahead

Dear Editor:

We are working hard to prepare for the 2002-2003 school year. The faculty returned to school on Monday, August 26. Students in grades 1-12 began on Tuesday, August 27. Kindergarten students participated in an orientation program. Students attending the Ella Flemings Preschool Program will be notified by mail of their starting date and the orientation schedule. Please note, Friday, August 30, 2002 will be a full school day.

The construction and renovation of the John W. Wynn Middle School continues. The school will not be completed for the opening of the school year. It is our hope that the school will be ready for the second half of the 2002-2003 school year. Grade seven students will continue to attend the John F. Ryan and Center Schools. Grade eight students will continue attending Tewksbury Memorial High School. We will keep all members of the middle school community apprised of the progress of the construction project.

The administration has been working hard to hire new faculty members. These positions will replace those vacancies created by the retirement of certain faculty members. The Tewksbury School Committee voted to reinstate the position of Elementary Gifted and Talented Program Specialist. Funds from a new federal grant will be used to hire a Computer Technology Specialist for the Elementary (K-4) schools. These funds will also be used to provide support during the school day for students in grades five through eight who failed the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System (MCAS). We welcome Dr. Gerald Ferris as the new principal at Tewksbury Memorial High School. He succeeds Mr. Anthony Romano who retired at the end of the 2001-2002 school year.

Many students have taken advantage of our summer programs. We continued to provide academic support programs for elementary students who experienced difficulty on the MCAS. We also provided transition programs for children entering kindergarten and grade one. A record number of students enrolled in our summer extended day camp while others participated in the enrichment programs offered by the Office of Community Services. We hope that all students are enjoying many good books through our summer reading program. Copies of summer reading lists are available at the Office of the Superintendent or at the Tewksbury Public Library.

The faculty and administration have also been active through the summer professional development program. Teachers have worked on the development of new curriculum. Other teachers have participated in training on the John Collins, Writing Program, Standards-based Classroom Instruction, Math Investigations and Computer Technology. We will offer the Second Annual Leadership Institute for aspiring school administrators and a seminar for new teachers.

The Tewksbury School Committee adopted a new five year strategic plan for the school system. Our goals for the 2002-2003 school year are based upon this new plan. The plan is organized around four key areas: curriculum and instruction, school and community, school resources and program improvement.

The curriculum and instruction section includes many new instructional offerings for the coming school year. The guided reading program will expand from grade one and two into grade three. Children in kindergarten through grade four will receive special instruction in computer technology. We begin the second year implementation of the new elementary math program with the added special investigations component. Students at Tewksbury Memorial High School will be offered a new dance course through the Fine Arts Department.

The school and community section includes the establishment of a more formalized program on character education, the implementation of the recommendations from the special education coordinated program review and the continuation of our efforts in the area of school safety. This section also includes the preparation work for the future re-accreditation of Tewksbury Memorial High School.

The area of school resources will focus on the re-entry of the middle school students to the newly renovated John W. Wynn Middle School. This area also includes the renovation of the parking area at the Louise D. Trahan School and Conlon Field. Both of these projects are well underway.

The program improvement area incorporates our work in the assessment of student performance on the MCAS, the implementation of the new teacher mentor program and the continued revision of School Committee Policies.

Parents and guardians will be welcomed into our school through the fall open houses. A complete open house schedule is included in the 2002-2003 school calendar. This calendar was distributed to students on the first day of school.

In addition we will present a two part series for parents and guardians in September. The focus of the series is helping your child realize academic success. The first session, scheduled for September 17, 2002 will focus on homework support. The second session on September 24, 2002 will address techniques for parent-teacher conferencing. Information about this program will be included in the September 2002 system wide calendar.

We look forward to working with parents and guardians through effective home and school partnerships. These partnerships contribute greatly to the academic and personal social success of our students.

Christine L. McGrath, Ph.D.
Superintendent of Schools

Residents can tour Olin property on September 17

Dear Editor:

In response to several media articles and public debate that has occurred over the last few weeks about Olin's Wilmington property on Eames Street, I would like to set the record straight. Members of the local community have expressed concerns about how contamination was caused at the facility, and who is responsible for investigating and cleaning up the property.

First, Olin did not create the conditions at this property. The 53-acre Wilmington property was a former chemical manufacturing facility constructed in 1963, which was owned and operated by three different companies prior to Olin. Evidence clearly shows that these former owners discharged waste into unlined pits, lagoons and ditches. Olin purchased the facility in 1980 and operated it for a short time before closing it in 1986. We have been engaged in the investigation and cleanup of the property ever since.

There has also been discussion regarding the future use of the Olin property as a construction and demolition waste reprocessing facility. The property has been permitted for Warehouse/Distribution, a use wholly consistent with surrounding facilities. That is the use that we are pursuing for this property.

Olin has not and will not abandon the property, as some have been alleging. Our history of working at the site years after its closure is evidence that we are committed and required to continue this work. We are preparing it for future productive use, but no matter who develops it, Olin will still retain the responsibility for addressing the current site conditions. We are exploring options to sell the property for development into a use consistent with surrounding properties. No matter who owns the property, Olin is responsible for performing the investigation and cleanup.

As a high priority, Tier 1A, site, every study and cleanup measure performed by Olin must comply with stringent state regulations, and each step is subject to review and approval in advance and oversight of the Department of Environmental Protection. As this project continues, it is crucially important that there are open communications among the residents, the Town, the DEP and Olin so that accurate information is shared between all parties.

Olin takes its commitment as an environmentally responsible company and a good neighbor very seriously. As part of this commitment, we proposed and support the formation of a Community Advisory Panel so that issues and questions of concern can be quickly and accurately addressed, rather than allowing inaccurate information to be reported. Those interested in serving on this Panel, please contact James Young at (800) 268-6141 to obtain a nomination form.

In addition, to continuing an open dialogue with the community, we have scheduled a Community Availability Day for September 17, 2002 at the Wilmington property to allow interested residents and community members to tour the facility and receive updates on the progress we're making in cleaning up this site and returning it to productive use. The sessions are scheduled from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Heart to Heart had a successful Family Fun Day

Dear Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the Heart to Heart Fund. We would like to extend our warmest thanks to Ken Caira, manager of Demoulas MarketBasket of Wilmington, for helping to make our first Family Fun Day a huge success!

The Heart to Heart fund is a group of local volunteers, mainly parents of children who were born with congenital heart defects. Although the general public may not be aware of it, CHDs are the number one birth defect. The mission of the Heart to Heart Fund is to provide emotional, financial and educational support to families who have children with heart disease.

Having your child diagnosed with a life threatening heart defect can feel devastating. Knowing that there is a whole support network of other families out there who have gone through a similar experience can be enormously helpful.

Our baby was born with a four-part heart defect known as Tetralogy of Fallot. We were not aware of his illness until he was two months old. Our first reaction was to look on the Internet for help. We asked everyone we knew if they knew of any other local families who had gone through a similar experience, but had no luck. With only a week to go before his open heart surgery, we were too emotionally spent to search for one.

Eric had an excellent recovery and the future looks good. Post surgery, we learned about the Heart to Heart Fund. The group provides a tremendous support network and has made a big difference in many people's lives. It is my hope to raise public awareness to the prevalence of these birth defects and to the existence of a group that may be able to help.

The Family Fun Day was an ideal opportunity for many of these families to meet and get to know each other. We are so grateful to Demoulas and to all of the other generous people who helped to make it possible.

Do you know a child with Congenital Heart Disease? For more information, look at our web site <http://www.heart2heartfund.org>.

Sincerely,
Lynne Ayvazian

The Polseys thank you

Dear Editor:

The Polsey Family would like to thank the EMTs, the Wilmington Fire Department and Elder Services for their excellent care and promptness in responding to calls for assistance to Winthrop Polsey. The people in our town should appreciate their hard work and dedication.

Also we would like to thank our friends for all their help and support over the past two years in caring for Winthrop. He certainly appreciated their warmth and friendship.

We would also like to inform the townspeople that we have a wonderful business within our town should they ever need assistance with Elder Care. The people at Home Instead Senior Care were extremely compassionate, professional and they went above and beyond what was expected of them. There aren't enough words to express our gratitude for their service. Thank you.

Letters to the Editor

"We the People" should reread the Constitution

Dear Editor:

It has been two weeks since the Special Town Meeting. I, like a lot of other people at that meeting, endured the heat, humidity, and crowdedness for several long hours in hopes of bringing closure to an issue that voting has not clearly decided.

Ms. Sullivan and Mr. Woodbury have stated their cases repeatedly and in different venues. The new library, they proclaim, belongs in the Common. In fact, I learned at Town Meeting from Ms. Sullivan that she had a dream that revealed to her the rightful and chosen place for the library. And, not to keep us in suspense, she shared that intimate thought too with us. The chosen place was the Town Common.

Ms. Sullivan and Mr. Woodbury are the founders of a group of petitioners who have dubbed themselves "We the People." This group has a different vision of where the proposed library should be located. Their view differs from that offered in the Feasibility Study and various individuals, town boards, and committees. For those of you who have been cryogenically frozen, the Feasibility Study is a comprehensive planning document that has taken five years to develop.

"We the People" have proclaimed themselves representatives of an indeed authorities on sound financial and fiscal planning and of course civic ascetics. Those of us who are just humble citizens either surrender to their divine will, or become of "Them that are not of the People."

You have probably no doubt guessed by now that I am not a card carrying "We the People" member. I would not qualify. I find it hard to embellish my opinions with self-righteousness. I can't use the American flag or the U.S. Constitution to buttress my views against my fellow citizens who may see things differently than I do. Nor can I employ the imagery of Martin Luther King's "I Had a Dream" speech to the stir the hearts of those who need enlightenment.

Like the Constitution, the Feasibility Study is not a perfect document. It does not have to be perfect for me to accept it. Nor does it need to meet my personal preferences. Some have criticized this document because it calls for the current Whitefield School location as the new home of the library. One citizen proclaimed, "This location is not near the Abundant Life School, what will those unfortunate children do?" Others are attached to the history of that school, others could care less. Still others are concerned about the tax rate, and have said "no" to new spending.

Is the Feasibility Study a conspiratorial document formulated in a dark room by men and women in black whose sole purpose is to undermine the town's constituents? Or, was it a reasonable document developed by many sincere and competent people? The evidence supports the latter.

Sullivan and Woodbury have exercised their lawful right by using the petition process. They have "rationally" proclaimed themselves victors as a result of contentious debate and a vote filled with parochial interests. The net result of which is the loss of $40k of taxpayers money and other incidental costs incurred as a result of their ill founded cause. The citizens of Wilmington now must wait for a new, next step.

To those members of "We the People," I would suggest you once again reread the Preamble to the Constitution. Then ask yourselves if your allegiance to such a noble document needed to be expressed with the boos and heckles that you so readily expressed against our Town Manager, Town Moderator, and the Director of the Library. Further, does that same document give you the right to trample on the rights and opinions of those who may not find your vision compelling? Since when is the common good best served by self interest devoid of facts, intelligence and common decency?

Respectfully,
Robert Whitfield

Keep striving for solution to library debate

Dear Editor:

It has been several weeks since the Special Town Meeting and we still have many questions still unanswered. Many residents are upset that we spent $40,000 on a feasibility study that many people feel is flawed and are holding the petitioners accountable. I say that we should hold the consultant, Tappe Associates, accountable and possibly ask them for a refund or to correct the report at no additional charge, based on flaws contained within the report. I have read both the actual Feasibility Study (dated April 2002) and the Site Related Feasibility Study, which was prepared for Tappe Associates by David E. Ross Associates in Ayer, MA. (dated March 2002)

The March 2002 report discusses the location of the present library as follows:

"The library is abutted by a Baptist Church and rectory to the west, a historic home to the east, and is across the street from several residences and a small doctor's office."

I feel that the consultant is incorrect because there is a house on either side of the library: one with a 20,000 square foot lot and the other with roughly a 13,000 square foot lot. The Baptist Church does not abut the Library nor does Nichol's Funeral Home. The study states as a site constraint that "...property acquisition is required on both sides of the lot to accommodate a new library; and future expansion is impossible without property acquisition."

I feel that the consultant should be asked about how such an obvious flaw could have been missed and what the correction of this error would mean to their report.

The actual Feasibility Study (dated April 2002) states only that "...the adjacent property is privately owned" and goes no further.

I have suggested that we work with the abutting property owners to see if we can purchase either or both properties in a friendly land taking. Also, I suggested that we work with WCTV to give the studio space within an expanded library utilizing money from WCTV's building fund. Not one WCTV or library spokesperson has publicly commented on this proposal either way to date. Their input is crucial if this idea has merit. This could work for both the town and WCTV.

I feel that we should look at the Whitefield site to address senior housing needs. We could preserve the look of the existing structure combined with an addition to give the look similar to that of the Foster School in Tewksbury.

I do not want to see the library issue die. Obviously, the two votes taken on the library reflect a division amongst our residents. Maybe this idea has merit and should be explored and brought to the voters in proper form.

Vote "yes" to for sidewalks

Dear Editor:

If you live on or near Foster, South, North, Brown, or Shawshen Streets in Tewksbury, you have a direct interest in the "Sidewalk Article." The Sidewalk Committee has drafted plans for the construction of sidewalks on these streets over the next five years.

I urge all Tewksbury residents to attend the Monday, October 1st Special Town Meeting and vote YES to place the sidewalk question on the ballot for the November election. This initiative asks whether or not the residents will support a debt exclusion for the construction of sidewalks on the above heavily traveled streets.

Approving this measure will help Improve Public Safety, Improve our Quality of Life, Connect our Neighborhoods, and Improve our Health while Increasing our Home and Property Values.

By voting "yes" we will send a powerful message to our town leaders. Our town officials will also take note that we want allocation of additional funds during future annual budget discussions for building and repairing sidewalks.

For a slight increase in contributions of only $20 per year for five years to the average household, these sidewalks will create incredible value.

Please join me and vote YES for the "Sidewalk Article" at Special Town Meeting on Monday, October 1st at 7 p.m. in the Tewksbury Memorial High School gymnasium. For more information please go to www.tewksbury.com/tsc.

A few corrections . . .

A few items that have appeared in the previous two editions of The Town Crier need corrections.

In a feature story that was published last week that was called "That's a grand slam gift on Lucci's finger," Walter MacDougall, a friend of Ken Lucci and a fellow owner of a World Series ring, was incorrectly identified as "William McDougal." Furthermore, Lucci's Supermarket on Lowell Street was incorrectly referred to as "Lucci's Deli Mart."

In a letter to the editor that was written by Karl Sagal that was published on the opinion page of last week's edition, the Wildwood School was mentioned, when, in fact, the Whitefield School should have been.

And, lastly, in an article titled "Recycling answers are right here at home" that appeared two weeks ago in the Tewksbury edition of the paper, Tewksbury Environmental Day was stated as set to take place on October 10. It should have been written that the event will take place on October 17.

Reservist Jennings participates in wartime training

WILMINGTON - Army Reserve Spec. Lendon R. Jennings, son of Harriet and L.R. Jennings of Salem Street, Wilmington and a 1978 graduate of Wilmington High School, is one of 1,000 reservists who took part in an annual training exercise termed "POLEX 2002" at Devens Reserve Forces Training Area. The soldiers gathered to practice accomplishing their wartime missions in petroleum, oil, lubricates and water supplies. The exercise is one of the largest training exercises for the Army Reserve, which integrates tactical, wartime training into the mission.

POLEX 2002 offers a unique training opportunity to Army reservists. The soldiers actually haul hundreds of thousands of gallons of fuel and purify almost the same amount of water and get to hone their skills in shipping, storing and delivering fuel and water for combat forces during the exercise. They purify and distribute water from ponds and monitor the quality and quantity of fuel to ensure safe and adequate levels to enable the United States to defend and defeat its enemies during wartime or from terrorists attacks and threats.

Jennings is a wheeled vehicle mechanic assigned to the 804th Medical Detachment in Devens.

T.H.E. Farm welcomes BU community service volunteers

TEWKSBURY - MJ Marcucci, President of The Tewksbury Hospital Equestrian Farm (T.H.E. FARM) Board of Directors, has announced that the Boston University Community Service Center has organized 45 student volunteers to dedicate their time to T.H.E. Farm on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

"The Boston University Community Service Center Student Volunteers will dedicate their time and effort this week to helping the patients of Tewksbury Hospital take advantage of T.H.E. Farm programs," said MJ Marcucci, President of T.H.E. Farm. "We are grateful to the Boston University Community Service Center and the student volunteers for recognizing the importance of our program and making a commitment to this effort."

T.H.E. Farm provides a therapeutic horseback riding program for physically and mentally handicapped individuals who live in the northeastern region of Massachusetts and to foster a regional environment for education, research, and integration of members of the disabled and able bodied communities, using the horse as a common bond. The program operates out of a newly renovated stable located on the grounds of the Tewksbury Hospital.

Global child returns

TEWKSBURY - Hola!-Bonjour! Global Child is returning to the Tewksbury and Wilmington School Districts with a new theme this fall, "Going Places." Diana Hibner and Maribel Powell, directors of the Global Child language program, are pleased to announce the appointment of Nicole Skaff as Regional Coordinator for both Tewksbury and Wilmington School Districts.

Nicole holds a bachelor degree in International Relations and has spent 10 years living and working in Europe. Nicole is excited to utilize her international background and administrative skills in the field of education. As Regional Coordinator, Nicole is responsible for marketing, setting up, and supervising Global Child's multilevel language instruction programs for Tewksbury and Wilmington.

"I am delighted to be part of such a noteworthy program as Global Child," Nicole said. "We live in such a multi-cultural society and to be given the choice to communicate in a second language is a valuable opportunity which will last a lifetime."

Founded in 1992, Global Child provides foreign language instruction, primarily in French and Spanish, for children in pre-kindergarten through grade six. The program emphasizes listening and speaking skills through a unique combination of movement, singing, games, and snacks. Classes are small, grouped by grade level, and are held after school in the children's own school.

There are paid part time teaching jobs available, as well as Parent-Coordinator positions at each school. Parent-Coordinators receive 50 percent off for one child each semester they serve.

The fall semester starts the first week of October and is 10 weeks long. Registration forms will be sent home with students in early September. The winter/spring semester is 12 weeks. Tuition is fee based. Global Child provides the curricula and materials and trains teachers for the program. Each student receives a booklet and CD for practice at home.

Wilmington company pays penalty for violating hazardous waste regulations

WILMINGTON - Intellisense Corp., 36 Jonspin Road, Wilmington, has paid a $6,150 penalty to the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) for failing to register with DEP as a generator of hazardous waste.

During an inspection of June 12, 2001, DEP found that the company, which produces components for the telecommunications, life sciences and micro-instrumentation industries, had been operating as a large or small quantity generator of hazardous waste without registering as such with DEP.

Other violations observe by DEP during the inspection involved several hazardous waste management regulations and the failure to submit a plan application for potential air emissions.

In addition, the company failed to pay annual compliance assurance fees for hazardous waste generation and air quality control. The penalty paid by the company included $2,400 in delinquent fees.

The penalty was included in an administrative consent order that also required the company to correct all violations and complete a supplemental environmental project within a year of signing the order. The project involves spending a minimum of $11,250 to buy specialized equipment to provide the Wilmington Fire Department with the capability of responding to hazardous materials spills.

Intellisense also agreed to implement an environmental management system (EMS) to ensure that the firm remains in compliance with state environmental regulations. The EMS must include the development of compliance policies, procedures and guidance documents for all of the company's operations and activities.

"Under this consent order, Intellisense Corp. has agreed to take a number of actions that will help the company to meet its environmental obligations and ensure public safety," said William Gaughan, director of DEP's Northeast Regional Office. "Environmental management systems have been used increasingly by DEP to encourage companies to incorporate environmental compliance into their daily operations."

The Department of Environmental Protection is responsible for ensuring clean air and water, safe management of solid and hazardous wastes, timely cleanup of hazardous waste sites and spills, and the preservation of wetlands and coastal resources.

Peabody shoots for a hole-in-one in

get out and golf," says Mrs. Peabody, who loves Keith's passion for golf. "We are extremely proud of him."

Admittedly, Mrs. Peabody never beats Keith.

If Peabody has a weak part of his game, it's putting. However, with his frequent trips to golf courses in Billerica, Eagles Landing in Tewksbury, and local miniature golf courses, Peabody is strengthening his game. With twelve relatives in his family who love playing golf, Peabody hits the links quite often, usually three or four times a week.

It is no wonder he has improved so much, according to his mother, Marge Peabody.

"He plays all the time," she says. "Whenever he can, he never turns down an offer to join a foursome on the links."

At last year's competition, Rick Silva, a former Wilmington resident and photographer, showed up at the event and caught Peabody in action. Those photos were published in the local papers, making it a very special moment for Peabody.

Peabody plays in the Joe Woods Tournament held in Wilmington every year, and last weekend he took home the gold in the State Tournament in Amherst. Peabody feels fortunate because his success on the golf course has taken him all over the country.

Peabody is not concerned about the competition that he will face down south. In fact, his mother says that he is a cool cat on the fairway.

"He enjoys the game and doesn't get rattled," she says.

"I don't care who the competition is," agrees Peabody. "I just want to get out there and play."

O'Donnell will move on come June

not address retention and promotion sufficiently; it is the hope that the new policy will close all loopholes. Those students who fail two or more key subjects will not move on to the next grade, unless they complete an accredited summer school program.

This coming school year will also be a new effort in collaborating with the Wilmington Police Department and its School Resource Officers. The Resource Officer positions are funded by a three-year federal grant that will help strengthen the drug awareness program in the schools.

"They will forge relationships with the students, so that they will be comfortable going to them with any safety concerns," says O'Donnell.

Other than the standard police duties, the resource officers will also teach students and the faculty on legal matters when needed. Officers Anthony Fiore and Julie Lambert will be the D.A.R.E. officers working in the schools this coming year.

In other business, a group of students from Wilmington High School has come up with a unique and respectful way to commemorate the anniversary of the terrorist attacks on September 11. They have the names and location of those who perished on that infamous day written on wristbands. A student, faculty member, or municipality worker will wear the wristband in tribute to someone who lost their life to the terrorist attack. Each member of the School Committee was presented with the first wristband to be handed out at last week's meeting.

DR. GERALDINE O'DONNELL will soon ring the school bell for the last time in Wilmington.

It's time to gear up for fall

Wilmington senior topics

WILMINGTON - September has arrived and hopefully the cool days have too. Children are heading back to school, start the fall cleaning and trying to get back on a "routine schedule." Here at the Center we are very happy to start our schedule once again. For example on Tuesdays, September 10, our Dance Class lead by Jan Mead will start at 1:30 p.m.; the Tai Chi Class lead by William Baron will start Friday September 13 at 10 a.m. for 10 weeks and a new Choir Group will start Thursday, September 18 at 1 p.m.

Also with September - believe it or not, the Fuel Assistance program begins. For Wilmington residents who applied last year they have started to receive renewal applications in the mail. Please feel free to call the Center, 978-657-7595 and speak to Terri Marciello if you should need any assistance or any question in regard to fuel assistance.

For Wilmington residents over the age of 60 who would like to apply for the first time will have the opportunity in October. More information will be in next month's newsletter.

September is our Annual Senior Health Fair that is sponsored by the Wilmington Board of Health and the Department of Elderly Services. This year it will be on Thursday, September 19 from 1 to 4 p.m. There will be blood pressure clinics, cholesterol screenings, blood sugar screenings and bone density tests. There will also be several representatives from different organizations. This will prove to be a great learning and fun afternoon. Refreshments will be served.

On Wednesday September 25 we will be having our first spaghetti dinner fundraiser. This event is to support the Wilmington High School Scholarship Fund. This is awarded to a student who plans to further their education in Social Work/Gerontology. It will be at the Buzzell Senior Center 15 School Street from 5 to 7 p.m. This dinner will include ziti, meatballs, salad and drink along with dessert. The donation is $5 per person. This is open to the public.

Lastly, the Center will be conducting a new computer class led by Toni Marino. This class will be teaching the basics of the computer. In order to take the class one must be able to practice on a regular basis and be available for four consecutive weeks. ## St. Thomas Church to hold "Ministry Fair"

WILMINGTON - The Rev. Phillip B. Earley, Pastor of St. Thomas of Villanova Church in Wilmington has announced that St. Thomas will be holding a "Ministry Fair" in the church basement after all masses on the weekend of September 7 and 8. Ministry leaders will be available to answer questions and provide information to those who are interested in volunteering in a particular area, but are unsure as to how to get started.

"The purpose of this Fair," Earley said, "is to make information available to both newly registered as well as established parishioners about the various ministries within the parish and to encourage the increased awareness and participation of the laity."

Just a few of the many ministries represented at the Fair will include Religious Education, Children's Liturgy of the Word, visiting the sick and homebound, Eucharistic Ministering and Altar Serving.

"I firmly believe that ministry brings great personal reward and fulfillment to those who serve," Earley continued, "and the Ministry Fair will encourage parishioners to examine their own commitment to fulfilling their Baptismal Calling and perhaps empower them to take a more active role in sharing their time and talent within the faith community of St. Thomas."

The Ministry Fair will provide a warm, welcoming and relaxed environment for all those who are interested in learning more about parish ministry, and will assist parishioners in discerning what their own personal calling might be.

Authorities emphasize holiday traffic safety

year before, when three fatal accidents were reported in 2000.

The local police department and the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau offer five tips to ensure a safer Labor Day Weekend and back-to-school season.

1) Always wear your seatbelt, as required of all occupants in a vehicle, according to Massachusetts law. Parents should instill the habit in their children, as it is the single most important step you can take to save your life in an accident.

2) Slow down and enjoy the ride. Speeding is the leading cause of automobile accidents, with more than one-third of such incidents resulting in fatalities. Drivers should also be aware that more children are out on the street, in crosswalks, on bicycles and scooters, and walking to and from school.

3) When driving, use your cell phone only as necessary. A New England Journal of Medicine study showed that the risk of crashing one's vehicle increases four-fold as a result of cell phone use. Teen drivers whose attention is diverted by cell phones, loud music, and friends in the car are especially at risk of distracted driving because of their lack of experience.

4) Statistics show that, for teen drivers, the risk of a fatal accident doubles with two passengers and quadruples with three passengers. Those motorists with a Junior Operator License have restrictions on how many passengers can ride with them during their first six months of licensed operation. Junior operator license restrictions can be found on the Massachusetts Registry website at www.mass.gov/rmv.

5) School buses will soon be on the road, so drivers should give them some distance and never pass one that has stopped to pick up or drop off children. Fatalities are often caused by a driver who passes a stopped school bus as students are boarding or departing the bus. Passing a stopped school bus will also result in a $200 fine.

The Fresh Air Fund: 125 years and still going strong

WILMINGTON - The summer is still in full swing for The Fresh Air Fund. The Fund is always looking for more families to host or volunteer their time. In the aftermath of Sept. 11th, families in the Wilmington area came together to give New York City children a respite from city life by providing them with a great summer vacation in country and suburban areas.

This summer, thousands of children are participating in our Friendly Town Program. Next year, you can help provide more summer vacations for New York City children. To find out more about volunteering call 800-367-0003 or visit The Fund's Website at www.freshair.org.

The Fresh Air Fund is an independent, not-for-profit agency that provides free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million disadvantaged New York City children since 1877. Nearly 10,000 New York City children enjoy free Fresh Air Fund programs annually. Children visit volunteer host families in suburbs and small town communities across 13 states from Virginia to Maine and Canada.

Additionally, children attend five Fresh Air camps on a 3,000 acre site in Fishkill, New York. The Fund's year-round camping program serves disadvantaged teenagers each year.

Thinking of building an in-law apartment?

WILMINGTON - As part of an effort to encourage accessory apartments, the Town of Wilmington's Community Development Program is proposing to provide financial assistance of up to $30,000 to help a local family construct an accessory ("in-law") apartment for their home. The funds could also be used to create an affordable rental unit in vacant space in the Central Business District as allowed by the Zoning By-law. The financial assistance would consist of a deferred payment loan, which is only repaid if the structure is sold within 15 years.

The town needs to identify if there are homeowners or landlords interested in participating in such a program. The future tenant (could be an in-law) would need to meet moderate income guidelines.

The funds would come from the Town's proposed housing rehabilitation program. The application is being submitted to the Department of Housing and Community Development this fall.

Interested homeowners or landlords are encouraged to call Jim Chaput, Community Development Program Director, at 978-658-9843 to learn more about this program.

Community Advisory Panel

from Olin and the DEP. A few individuals, such as Selectman Michael McCoy, took umbrage that Olin would presume to tell the people of Wilmington how to form and run such a committee.

"It's a town matter, a town issue, and a town directive," said Selectman McCoy. "I'm a little bit dumbfounded to think that Olin Chemical would dictate to us on how we form this committee."

The idea to form a community advisory panel was first mentioned by Morrow. On July 15, the Board of Selectmen requested that Morrow ask the management at Olin if the chemical company would be willing to pay for an environmental consultant of the town's choice. During a selectmen meeting on August 12, a letter sent from Morrow to the town revealed that Olin would not pay the fees for a consultant but would work with the community to form a citizens advisory panel.

On Monday night, residents stood at a microphone and addressed the selectmen, Morrow and Pyott. Chief among their concerns were the plans of Olin to sell its property; the belief that the panel should function independently from Olin; the hope that the scope of the committee would include environmental issues beyond the chemical company; and the legal steps that can be taken to hold Olin to the completion of its task.

Morrow noted that Olin is exploring options that would enable the company to sell its property, but he maintained that Olin would remain fully responsible for the clean-up even after a sale takes place. He also assured residents that Olin will not become a construction and demolition waste processing facility, as many in the community have alleged. Instead, said Morrow, Olin hopes to become something along the lines of Warehouse/Distribution, an arrangement for which Olin is permitted and which is consistent with surrounding facilities.

Selectman Robert Palmer stated that the committee would be independent from Olin and the DEP. He also became the first selectman to state that he wanted to be a member of the panel. By the end of the meeting, Selectmen Robert Cain, Raymond Lepore and McCoy joined the committee as well. During an executive session after the meeting, the selectmen met with Town Counsel Michael Newhouse and discussed the parameters of their membership on the panel.

At one point, McCoy asked Town Counsel Newhouse if the town had any legal avenues that it could pursue to hold up the sale of the Olin property until the clean-up of the contamination is complete. Newhouse responded in general terms that a "laundry list of causes of action" that the town could take against Olin could possibly stem from issues of negligence and nuisance.

"Given the factual investigation of any particular case, if the town has a legal course of action, then there are certainly ways to tie up the property until that legal cause of action has been addressed," Newhouse said.

In the weeks leading up to Monday night's meeting, the Office of the Town Manager had been contacted by a number of individuals who expressed an interest in joining the panel and lending their expertise and research and dedication to the environment. During the meeting, even more people stepped forward and requested membership on the committee.

As a result, the members of the committee are Jeffrey Hull, the Assistant Town Manager; Gregory Erickson, the Director of the Board of Health; Michael Woods, the Water and Sewer Superintendent; Barbara Ganem, the Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation;

Jane Williams-Vale, MD, of the Board of Health; Judy Waterhouse, of the Conservation Commission; Joseph Balliro, Jr., Esq., of the Water and Sewer Commission; Vera Scolastico and Kathleen Barry, both of the Concerned Citizens Network; Daniel Wandell, Jr.; Dennis Cataldo; Betty Bigwood; Roger Lessard; George Lingenfelter; Charles Rooney; Suzanne Sullivan; Stephen Costa; and Debrah Duggan.

All four members of the Board of Selectmen will participate on the panel, but they will not serve as voting members.

The first meeting of the Community Advisory Panel will take place on Monday, September 16, at the Wilmington Town Hall at 7 p.m.

More RMLD abuses alleged

current officer or employee of a state, county or municipal agency shall knowingly, or with reason to know:

(2) use or attempt to use his official position to secure for himself or others unwarranted privileges or exemptions which are of substantial value and which are not properly available to similarly situated individuals.

(3) act in a manner which would cause a reasonable person, having knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to conclude that any person can improperly influence or unduly enjoy his favor in the performance of his official duties, or that he is likely to act as a result of kinship, rank, position or undue influence of any party or person."

The Massachusetts Ethics Commission has deemed 'substantial value' to be $50 or more and has also determined that the following are considered gifts: waived fees, discounts, gift certificates and entertainment. Private parties, such as RMLD vendors, who offer inducements or rewards are subject to penalties under the conflict law.

The letter from the inspector general's office states that documents indicate that numerous items of "substantial value were bestowed upon RMLD's former general manager (Rucker) and the current acting general manager (Cameron, formerly the assistant general manager of operations) by PLM and Beck, both of whom were under contract with RMLD for professional services." The letter states that many gifts from PLM and Beck were over the $50 threshold, stating, "In other cases, gifts from PLM and Beck were received but the value of the gifts was not provided to this Office. However, even if the vendor gifts were less than $50, the frequency of the gift giving is notable in light of the fact that the State Ethics Commission considers a pattern of bestowing gifts valued at less than $50 to be a violation of M.G.L. c. 268A."

The letter goes on to state, "The conduct of RMLD employees in instances where gifts were accepted undermines the integrity of the working relationships between RMLD and its vendors. Moreover, ratepayers are not assured that objectivity is guiding RMLD contracting practices, or whether RMLD employees' personal relationships with vendors have unduly influenced them."

The letter details the following incidents of alleged questionable conduct:

- In 1998:
- 1) On March 15, the acting general manager dined at Morton's of San Antonio, Texas with a PLM consultant and six other unidentified people. The cost of the dinner, paid by PLM, was $434;
  - 2) On March 16, the acting general manager played golf at the Hyatt Hill Country Club in San Antonio, Texas with a PLM consultant and two other unidentified people. The cost of the outing, paid for by PLM, was $323;
  - 3) On June 28, the former general manager and acting general manager attended a golf outing at the Brae Burn Country Club in Newton, Massachusetts, sponsored by PLM. The cost of the outing, paid for by PLM, totaled $12,350;
  - 4) On September 1, RMLD's former general manager and a Beck employee had lunch at Finnerty's restaurant in Wayland, Massachusetts. RMLD did not disclose the cost of the lunch or who paid for it.

5) On September 8, the RMLD's former general manager attended a Red Sox game, compliments of Energy New England, L.L.C. RMLD did not disclose the value of the tickets.

6) On November 13, RMLD's former general manager and a Beck employee had breakfast at the Crowne Plaza in Woburn, but the RMLD did not disclose the cost of breakfast or who paid for it.

In 1999:

- 1) On March 26, RMLD's former general manager had lunch with a Beck employee. RMLD did not disclose to the inspector general the place, purpose, cost and who paid for the lunch;
- 2) On June 8, RMLD's former general manager met a PLM consultant in Sterling, Massachusetts, for a 1 p.m. appointment. The former general manager was gone from the office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. that day, but RMLD provided no information, though the inspector general's office states that subsequent meetings in the same location, between the same parties, included meals and golf outings that were paid for by PLM.

In 2000:

- 1) On June 15, RMLD's acting general manager played golf and dined with a PLM consultant and another unidentified person at the Sterling Country Club in Sterling. The outing was paid for by PLM at a cost of $297.87;
- 2) On August 16, RMLD's former general manager had lunch with a Beck employee in Framingham, Massachusetts. RMLD did not disclose to the inspector general the location, the cost and who paid for the meal;
- 3) In December, RMLD's acting general manager attended the PLM Christmas party at the Brae Burn Country Club in Newton. The cost of the party paid for PLM totaled $15,411.44.

In 2001:

- 1) In March, RMLD's acting general manager and chief engineer and a Beck employee and his wife had dinner while attending an American Public Power Plant Association conference in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. RMLD did not disclose to the inspector general the purpose, cost, or who paid for the dinner;
- 2) On May 10, RMLD's acting general manager played golf and dined with a PLM consultant and four unidentified people at the Sterling Country Club in Sterling. The golf outing and dinner, paid for by PLM, totaled $541.85.

The letter concludes with the following recommendations:

- The RMLD Board must provide more effective oversight on behalf of the ratepayer regarding compliance with Massachusetts law and avoiding appearances of impropriety;
- The Board should make its own inquiry into the propriety of conduct between RMLD vendors and employees;
- The Board should strengthen internal rules and policies pertaining to conduct with vendors prohibiting the receipt of gifts by RMLD employees;
- Finally, the Board should directly apprise RMLD vendors that RMLD employees are prohibited from accepting gifts.

Coming next week's issue

The summer is coming to a close and that means another school season has begun thus high school sports is just around the corner. Last week we printed the fall athletic schedules for Wilmington High School. In this week's edition will be the Tewksbury High fall athletic schedules.

In next week's edition will be previews of all of the upcoming athletic teams with features, columns and predictions on how each of them will finish. The high school football previews and features will be in the week of September 12th because their seasons don't begin until that weekend.

As always we will have plenty of sports coverage for the local high school teams from Wilmington, Tewksbury and Shawsheen Tech for the entire school season. In the fall we will continue to run the selected pages of all of the local football action, whether it be high school or college into selected few pages.

We also plan on a few new ideas for the upcoming season, so don't miss out on the only newspaper in town which covers high school sports from top to bottom.

Wilmington Jimmy Fund baseball team eliminated by Arlington

The 11-12 year old Wilmington Wildcats bowed out of the Jimmy Fund Baseball Tournament with a first-round loss to the Arlington Red squad. Arlington out-hit Wilmington 9-5 and played errorless ball as they cruised to a 15-3 victory at Scannell Field in Arlington and advanced to the semi-finals, losing to eventual tournament champions, the Woburn Lions.

Wilmington got on the board early as Colin Wilson led off the game with a walk, advanced on two wild pitches and then scored on a passed ball. Arlington came back in the bottom of the first scoring 3 runs with 2 hits, a walk, and alert base-running. Wilmington had a chance to score again in the 2nd after Matt Sullivan and Ryan Kennedy both walked with 2 outs but a batted ball hitting a baserunner ended that threat.

After scoring another run in the 2nd without the benefit of a hit, Arlington broke it open in the 3rd and 4th innings. They scored 4 in the 3rd, including a 3-run blast by their clean-up hitter. It was the big first baseman's 2nd homerun in as many games against Wilmington as he belted one into the trees beyond centerfield last week at Rotary Park. A 6-run 4th inning resulted from only 3 hits but they were combined with 3 walks and 4 Wilmington errors.

Wilmington got their second run in the 5th inning. Kennedy led off with a single and, after Pat Wilk was hit by a pitch, Billy Crowley's RBI-single drove in Kennedy. The Wildcats final run came in the 6th. With one out, Mike Sheerin walked but was gunned down trying to advance on a passed ball. Grant Evans took a two-out walk, advanced to 2nd on a wild pitch and then moved to 3rd on JJ Polcari's 2nd hit of the game. Evans then scored on another wild pitch.

Pitchers Eric Siegel and Mike Jensen combined to strikeout 6, allow only 9 hits, and strand 9 Arlington baserunners. Offensively Wilmington struggled with only 5 hits, two from Polcari and one each by Wilson, Crowley, and Kennedy. This was Kennedy's first game back after suffering a broken arm in the final week of the Little League season.

Most teams are able to send their major league all-stars into these summer tournaments but only six players on Wilmington's roster had any major league experience at all. Although winning only one game in the tournament, they went into the summer knowing they were up against some very strong teams from other District 13 communities. The experience gained, the enjoyment of continuing to play baseball throughout the summer, as well as benefiting a worthy cause such as the Jimmy Fund made it all worthwhile.

Reading YMCA offers adult volleyball

READING - The Reading YMCA Center is gearing up for another year of its Adult Volleyball League. The league is set to begin September 23.

The Adult Volleyball League is a co-ed league for players 18 and older, who have an interest in the sport. The league will consist of six teams with six to eight players on each team. Each team will play once a week, on Monday nights at 6:30 p.m. at the Reading YMCA Center.

The league will begin with an open volleyball night on Monday, September 16. The actual games will start September 23. The league will run for 10 weeks, with an elimination playoff.

The league is co-ed and requires a minimum of two females or males on the court at all times. Team or individual registration forms may be picked up at the Burbank and Wakefield YMCAs.

"The volleyball league is a fun way for adults to interact in a recreational setting. You don't have to have a team to sign up, just drop by, sign up and we will get you on a team," said Phil DiRusso, Sports and Fitness Director.

For 10 fun weeks you can meet and interact with adults with a common interest. For members of the YMCA the costs are $40, for program members it is $60. This is a reasonable amount for a chance to meet new friends and get a great workout.

For more information on the Adult Volleyball League or to receive a new Fall I brochure, call 781-944-9622.

Twisters drift into championship game

Twisters vs Bay State Vipers
Tough as nails Katie Hebert came back from a bloody mess from a ball in the face on the bases to fire a one hit shutout. She walked only one batter and struck out four. Big hits by Julie Martell and Kat Trombly and runs scored by Kim Breton and Liz Mucica were enough because of good defense like Katie Martell's 12 putouts at first base.

Twisters vs Mass. Drifters

Julie Carlino was immense on the mound letting up only two hits while walking nobody. Alex Sacco scored the only run of the game in the eighth inning on an infield hit by Katie Martell. Only other hit was by third baseman Katie Hebert.

Exceptional "d" by centerfielder Dana Ferriero and shortstop Chelsey Feale.

Championship game
Twisters vs Mass. Drifters

North
The Twisters finally kicked the offense into gear, scoring early to back up winning hurler Liz Mucica (six whiffs, one walk). Defense like Alex Sacco's 4-3 double play to Katie Martell snuffed out a Drifter rally early.

The offensive surge was led by Chelsey Feale's two doubles (good for three rbi's), Katie Hebert's two hits (with three runs scored), two hits each by Kim Breton and Amanda Fogaren and a safety apiece by Danielle Hebert and Cassie Carlson for the champs.

The Merrimack Valley Twisters 14U girls fast pitch softball team won the Tewksbury Invitational Tourney, this past weekend to wrap up the 2002 season in style. Once again, superior pitching to hold off the opponents until the offense could put some numbers on the board to put the Twisters on top of the pack. A stifling defense helped the stingy pitching in each contest.

Twisters vs Groton Demons

Katie Hebert's masterful no-no on the mound (four K's, no walks) was backed up by vacuum cleaner Katie Martell (nine first base putouts). Martell, Amanda Fogaren and Michelle Coppi all had two hits apiece for the winners.

Twisters vs Bay State Blaze

Julie Carlino was tough on the mound, backed by equally tough defense like the 2/6/2 double play pulled off by catcher Michelle Coppi, shortstop Chelsey Fiske, and catcher Coppi again. Offense was led by Katie Hebert (two hits), Kat Trombly and Kim Breton (one hit each).

Lowell Psychos vs Twisters

Uncharacteristically shakey defense led the Psychos to their three runs. Lowell pitcher Renee Clanetta held the Twisters to only four hits, two by Katie Martell and singles by Alex Sacco (rbi) and Dina Ferriero. Tough luck losing pitcher Liz Mucica gave up only one hit.

The Twisters would like to thank Tewksbury Girls Softball, led by Tourney Director Sheron Rawding for a very hospitable, well organized weekend of fun, competitive softball.

Twisters to hold tryouts for next season

Merrimack Valley Twisters Girls Fastpitch Softball 2003 season tryouts will be held Saturday, Sunday September 14 and 15 and Saturday and Sunday September 21 and 22 (raindate) at Memorial Field on Livingston Street in Tewksbury. Take your glove, cleats, bat and enthusiasm!

Under 12 softball team swipes third place

The 12U Wildcat Girls Softball team completed a successful first season with a third place finish in the North Reading Classic Sunday August 11. The Wildcats were also co-champions of the Middle-Essex 12UA division summer league. The Cats were 9-1 in league play.

North Reading Classic Cats 17, Reading 2
The Cats got off to a great start by defeating the Reading Rockets 17-2. Leading the way on offense for the Cats were short stop Katie Cole with three hits; pitcher Brittany Danehy, two hits; and Kim Ciampa, two hits; Colleen Carroll, Jamie Burns, Maggie Sorrentino, Nicole Bockus, Michelle St. Aubin, Jessica Harrington with a hit each.

Defensively catcher Dana Nolan and pitcher Brittany Danehy led the Cats. Brittany recorded six of the nine outs by strikeout. Colleen Carroll and Jessica Harrington pitched in with fine defensive plays.

North Reading 16, Cats 1
The Cats got off to a rough start on Saturday. Already missing Christian Iaquinio due to a sprained ankle suffered on Thursday, Wilmington lost their starting pitcher Brittany Danehy to an injured finger in the second inning of a 1-1 game. Brianna Nicolo came on in relief, but the Hornets bats were on fire and they ran away with the victory.

Cats 11, Winthrop 9
Brianna Nicolo and the Wildcats bounced back in the afternoon game on Saturday to take a hard fought win from Winthrop. Brianna went the distance on the mound and scattered four hits. Defensively second baseman Colleen Carroll, shortstop Michelle St. Aubin and first baseman Jessica Harrington played very well for the Wildcats.

Offensively Maggie Sorrentino led the way with three hits. Brianna Nicolo helped her own cause going 2-3 including a triple. Sara Devoe, Kim Ciampa, Nicole Bockus, Michelle St. Aubin, Dana Nolan and Colleen Carroll all chipped in with timely hits.

Cats 22, Melrose 7
The Wildcats started the elimination round in fine fashion with a convincing 22-7 win over Melrose. Brianna Nicolo again got the start on the mound and pitched all four innings striking out three.

Kim Ciampa, Nicole Bockus and Colleen Carroll all had two hits for the Cats. Maggie Sorrentino, Michelle St. Aubin, Brianna Nicolo and Jessica Harrington all contributed with a hit each.

North Reading 2, Wilmington 1
To get to the final game, the Wildcats were faced with the difficult challenge of playing the Hornets of North Reading for the second time in the tourney. The Hornets had a very successful season finishing fourth in the New England Regional and ninth in the Nationals.

The Wildcats were up to the task though. Pitcher Brittany Danehy removed her splint and decided since this was the last day of the season she'd try pitching through her injury. She responded with her grittiest game of the season. Although she didn't have her best fastball, she kept the Hornets off balance with a variety of off speed pitches and held them to two unearned runs. She struck out five and didn't walk a single batter, while scattering five hits.

Offensively their pitcher Brittany Danehy again led the Wildcats. She knocked in the Cats only run of the game and was 3-3 on the day. Also chipping in with hits were Maggie Sorrentino (Triple), Jessica Harrington and Brianna Nicolo.

Defensively the Cats played well and were led by their catcher Dana Nolan. Dana kept the Hornets honest on the bases throwing out two would be base stealers. Third baseman Kim Ciampa first baseman Jessica Harrington and second baseman Colleen Carroll also played well in the field for the Wildcats.

This was the first time in three years that Wilmington fielded a 12U team and coaches Bob Danehy, Scott Nolan and Mike Ciampa were pleased with the progress the girls made and proud of their effort.

Tewksbury voter registration session

TEWKSBURY - A voter registration session has been scheduled for Wednesday, August 28, 2002 from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Town Clerk's Office, Town Hall, Elizabeth Carey, Town Clerk, informs residents who have not registered to vote, that this is the final day to register to be eligible to vote at the upcoming September State Primary and to change political party enrollment. Residents who will be 18 years of age on or before Tuesday, September 17, 2002 are eligible to register to vote at this session. Proof of age is required.

Residents may register to vote during regular Town Clerk Office hours, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday evening from 7 to 8:30 or phone 978-640-4355 and we will mail you a mail-in voter registration form. The mail-in registration form must be postmarked on or before Wednesday, August 28, or hand delivered to the Town Clerk's office before 8 p.m. on Wednesday, August 28, in order for you to be eligible to vote at the upcoming September State Primary Election.

August 28 is the last day to change your Political Party enrollment. If you are unsure of your voter enrollment, phone the Town Clerk's office at 978-640-4355 for verification. To change your party enrollment, a voter must personally sign a written request or sign a change of party enrollment card to show the new party affiliation that they wish to declare.

Voters who are registered to vote as unenrolled (commonly called Independent) may declare at the September Primary whether they want a Democratic party ballot, a Republican party ballot, as Libertarian party ballot, or a Green party ballot.

Voters registered as a Democrat will only receive a Democratic ballot, voters registered as Republican will only receive a Republican ballot, voters registered as Libertarian will only receive a Libertarian ballot and voters registered as a Mass. Green will only receive a Green party ballot.

The Election Law provides for a State Primary only, that if you are registered as an unenrolled voter prior to the selection of a party ballot at the State Primary election, you shall continue to be an unenrolled voter. After voting there is no need to fill out a change of party enrollment card, this will be done automatically for you at the Town Clerk's office. This rule does not apply to the Presidential Primary.

Change of party enrollment cards are available at each voting precinct on Election Day.

Any previously registered voter, who has not changed their residence and who did not reply to the 2002 annual town census, or did not respond to the second census notice, is encouraged to phone the Town Clerk's office at 978-640-4355 to verify your voter status and/or your voting precinct location.

THE BUFFALO BILLS QUARTERBACK, Drew Bledsoe, drops back to pass during a preseason game against the Minnesota Vikings at Ralph Wilson Stadium in Orchard Park, NY on Friday, August 16. ## Bills Backers of Boston

They're alive and growing in Wakefield

By PAUL FEELY

If you're looking for a stock tip, here's one you can do what you will with - look to own a piece of a certain satellite television provider that carries the Sunday National Football Ticket package this season. There's likely to be quite a few units purchased here in the New England area.

Though it may be true that when it comes to sports there are many people who simply cheer for a uniform, there are many fans who still follow their favorite player, wherever they may end up due to the magic of free agency. When a player spends over a decade in one place, an entire generation of fans comes to follow him or her, and if that player moves on to a different zip code, some fans may switch allegiances, if not addresses.

Such is the case with Drew Bledsoe, who for so many years was the quarterback for the New England Patriots, but is now the field general for a divisional rival of the Super Bowl champions, the Buffalo Bills. Though last season was a magical one for the Patriots, as the team captured the attention of fans across the country with a finish that Cinderella would have been proud of, Bledsoe was one of the casualties of a tidal wave of support that swelled in this region behind quarterback Tom Brady. In the offseason it became clear the Bledsoe wanted a shot with a club where he could again be a starter, and New England shuffled him off to Buffalo.

For Bledsoe fans looking to follow their man as he suits up 500 miles away, there may be an easier method than attaching a dish to the side of their house. There have been a group of people meeting in Boston every Sunday for over 10 years, rooting for the Bills in a land full of Patriots supporters, and they're more than welcome to entertain a few new faces this fall.

The group is called the Bills Backers of Boston, and they are an official part of a nationwide network of Buffalo football fans. Many cities across the country have their own chapters, and a particular bar or restaurant where members head each Sunday or Monday night during the regular season (and, when successful, the postseason) to watch the games in a fun, friendly atmosphere.

The President of the Boston Chapter is Jeff Crump, a transplanted Western New Yorker who found it impossible to give up his beloved Bills when he moved to Massachusetts.

"I grew up in Amherst, New York, and moved here after college in 1987," said Crump. "I've been a lifelong Bills fan. I remember my Dad taking me to Bills games when I was a kid - my first game was in 1973."

After moving to the area, Crump soon discovered that the television broadcast rules regarding the National Football League didn't make things easy for a man trying to follow a team from afar.

"Not too long after I moved to the Boston area I heard about a bar (The Fours) that was showing Bills games on Sundays," said Crump. "At first, the group was small, perhaps 15 people there week to week. But as word spread we grew, and by 1990 the bar would be packed for game

"About that time I heard of Bills Backers International, which was being run by folks in the Bills Public Relations office. It's an organization run by fans with the help of the team, and everyone involved is a volunteer. During the 1990 season George Pacil and myself gathered the first list of 'regulars' from the Fours. We ended up with about 75 people on our mailing list that year. Our first official season as the Bills Backers of Boston was 1991. This year

Two young brothers marched into a DENTAL OFFICE an early summer afternoon. The oldest one said, "I have to have a tooth taken out. I don't want no Gas, or NOVOCAINE just PULL IT, I'm in a hurry, I have to pitch a LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL GAME in 'about an hour." DR. CHRIS turned to ELLEN his assistant and said, "I have been a dentist for many years and I have never witnessed courage like this before. Okay," Dr. Chris said, "WHICH TOOTH IS IT?" The young man turned around and shouted, "Hey, Arnie HURRY UP over here and show the Doc your tooth!"...

Harvard University said, "BEHOLD the turtle. It doesn't make any PROGRESS until it STICKS ITS NECK OUT..."

About the Towns

INVESTING WISELY...

by Phyllis Nissen

Health alert: Wakefield

"The Board of Health has set a tentative date of Saturday, September 14 for its annual Household Hazardous Waste Day," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Police and Fire Department detail officers are required for the event and the Vocational School schedule needs to be met before a final date is set for the day, but requests for bids will be sent out."

"Vice Chairperson Patricia Zingariello suggested that 'There may be grants available to assist in funding some of the operations of the event.'"

"Administrative Assistant Annette Gange will confirm the date, time and rules in the near future."

time favorites such as "Carousel", "42nd Street" and "Show Boat". Their agenda for this year includes a performance at the Apple Festival in N. Reading, The Annual Evening of Giving at the North Shore Mall, along with Christmas Concert On The Common in N. Reading.

For more information please call Nancy C. at (978) 664-4800.

"There is some hope that tires will be able to be disposed of, but that will have to be specially arranged...."

In combination: Reading and Wakefield

"Over two dozen firefighters from the Reading and Wakefield fire departments teamed up together recently at Camp Curtis Guild in Reading to sharpen their trench rescue skills," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Trench accidents do happen and specialized training is really necessary in order to make a safe and effective rescue. This could also prevent a rescuer from jumping in and becoming a victim himself," explained Wakefield Fire Chief David Parr.

"There have been several highly-publicized incidents involving trench collapses within the recent months."

"Earlier in the year, authorities had to rescue a cemetery worker in Malden, after the trench he was working in collapsed."

"Crews working on buried water and gas lines are also commonly the victims of trench collapses. In Wakefield, back in the 1960's, one local employee of the Water Department was forced into retirement following a trench collapse on New Salem Street. The man, along with several other workers, were injured in the mishap, though he sustained the most serious injuries out of the group - two broken legs.... The combined training also serves as an economical option, as it defrays the cost to the two departments, since both can take advantage of the one class session simultaneously."

"Firefighters are expected to take part in a second trench rescue training session at some point this coming fall."

Downeast: Woburn

"Want to enjoy a pleasant afternoon or weekend trip to Maine, but afraid of the traffic hassles on Route 95 north?" notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Now, there is a convenient alternative - the Downeaster passenger rail train which runs from North Station in Boston to Portland, Maine - and it just added a scheduled stop at the Anderson Regional Transportation Center in northeast Woburn."

"The train, which makes four round trips daily between Portland and Boston, stops along the way at, now, Woburn and Haverhill; Exeter, Durham and Dover, N.H.; and Wells and Saco, Maine. A seasonal stop at Old Orchard Beach, Maine is also added."

"About 60 travelers and dignitaries attended the inaugural stop of train No. 683 at the RTC at 12:22 p.m., including Mayor John Curran, state Rep. Carol Donovan, state Sen. Robert Havern, Amtrak Vice Chairman Michael Dukakis, former governor of Massachusetts and protesters, members of the National Corridors Initiative and Sierra Club, urging officials to make good on earlier promises to build the north-south rail link connecting North and South Stations in Boston.

"The event was celebrated by Amtrak, the MBTA, the Northern New England Passenger Rail Authority (NNEPRA) and the Maine Tourism Association...."

"A one-way ticket between Woburn and Portland costs $19 per person (seniors and other discounts available) and round-trip travel on the same day is $35. Tickets for the Downeaster must be reserved in advance by calling 1-800-USA-RAIL or visiting the website."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. ## Bills Backers From S-1 we have 500 folks at the Harp, a restaurant and pub on Causeway Street in Boston."

The club conducts many fundraisers over the course of the year, and has made donations to Jim Kelly's Hunter's Hope Foundation (to help fight Krabbe's leukodystrophy), Doug Flutie's Autism Foundation, and the Buffalo Bills Youth Foundation, which helps troubled youth in Western New York. The club also recently made a donation to the Drew Bledsoe Foundation and his Parenting with Dignity program.

Before the days of satellite television, local Bills fans could only head to a local bar and hope the game was being shown.

"The main reason for organizing as a group was because if we could present ourselves as a group to a prospective host bar, we could ensure a place to watch the games," said Crump. "It's a business relationship - we give our members a place to watch the games, and we bring the bar business on a Sunday, when they wouldn't normally have it. Of course, it took on a life of its own after that."

Though fans can now have games beamed into their homes if they choose, such a package isn't cheap. Many people can't afford it, and some who can choose to make the trek to the Harp for the simple feeling of being part of the group.

"Living in Patriots country, we don't get to see the Bills on TV much," said Crump. "If you follow the team, it's not enough to catch the highlights on SportsCenter. On top of that, gathering at the Harp on Sundays really is a bit of a 'home away from home.' I am constantly meeting people that I have connections with from back home, folks that went to the same schools or know the people I grew up with, and I know I'm not alone."

Membership numbers have grown over the years, and it doesn't hurt that local heroes like Doug Flutie and Bledsoe have become members of the Bills roster in recent years.

"When Flutie joined the team, it was originally in a backup role," said Crump. "But when he became a regular starter it did bring in a few curious 'Flutopians' who wanted only to see him. I wouldn't say it caused a surge in our membership, but it certainly did energize folks. Even though most of our members are displaced Buffalonians, we live here and have friends (and spouses) who grew up here, so there were many new faces in the Harp those days. I guess you could call them casual fans."

Does he expect the same type of thing to happen now that Bledsoe calls Buffalo home?

"I do expect a similar thing will happen with Bledsoe, but Drew has a very different public persona here than Flutie, who was almost a cult-like figure," said Crump. "The one thing Drew Bledsoe will do - and already has done - is make New England probably the Bills' biggest rival this year. Those two games are going to be crazy."

Businesswomen to meet in Sept.

The Homebased Businesswomen's Network, Inc. will meet on Thursday, September 12, 2002, at 7 p.m. at the Village Green Restaurant, Route One - North, Newbury St., Danvers.

Peggy Leon of Primerica Financial Services will present "How Money Works: Most People Don't plan to Fail, They Fail to Plan." She will provide information and illustrations of how money works, with particular attention to the "rule of 72," the "smart solution," and the "50/25 rule."

Ms. Leon has been with PFS since Dec. 1981, and became the first woman in New England promoted to Regional Vice President. She has built a successful business using the principles of making, saving, and investing money that she learned, and later taught her clients. She will share these principles with us. She is a prime example of how a person can go from nearly broke, living in an unheated apartment, to "living the dream," with a home on the North Shore and another one in Italy with all the time to enjoy them both.

She and her husband are now living in Italy part of the year in their newly purchased home inside the walls of a medieval village in Umbria, after completing four years traveling on their sail boat.

Some ideas

Keeping those toys tidy

They're loud, they constantly run in and out and they're turning your once organized home into a summertime war zone. If countless practices, summer camps and play dates haven't gotten you down, chances are that your messy children have you looking for school buses.

"With kids at home all day, you tend to take precedent over keeping the house clean," says Matt Donnelly, owner of The Maids* Home Services of Greater Boston and the North Shore. "It's always a good idea to have 'Plan B' in mind when entertaining your children and cleaning up afterwards."

The Maids* Home Services offers the following cleaning tips to help you keep your cool when your children's hot summer fun gets too messy.

Chewing gum - Whether it's stuck on the bottom of your shoe or in a pocket, leave it in the freezer overnight and gently chip away. For stubborn gum, use a small amount of paint thinner and wipe with a clean, dry cloth.

Playdough in the carpet - Place a large amount of dry-cleaning solvent on a clean white towel. Leave the towel on the affected area for one minute, lift and gently rub the playdough away, moving towel in one direction.

Dirt and Dust - It's everywhere! Ask children to remove shoes before coming into the house to keep as many allergens outside as possible. Vacuum entryways often to remove allergy and asthma contaminants.

Fingerprints - Buff surfaces with a clean cloth dampened with a neutral disinfectant. This will not only remove fingerprints, but childhood germs as well.

Lipstick on your collar (or wall) - Little girls love to play with make-up. Scrape excess wax away with a soft spatula. Pretreat clothing with a small amount of dishwashing liquid and rinse. Mix 1/3 part white vinegar to 2/3 part water to gently blot stain away or wipe surfaces clean.

Help your children become more involved in keeping your house clean by motivating them to tackle household chores. For more information, as well as tips for motivating your children, visit The Maids* Home Services' Web site at www.maids.com

Focus on eye health at menopause

One of the main risk factors for eye diseases such as cataracts, glaucoma, and macular degeneration is age. But women, especially those who are postmenopausal, have double the chance of developing macular degeneration, the leading cause of blindness in people over 50, compared to men the same age.

Recent findings show that women during their menopausal years and beyond should pay close attention to their eye health.

As women go through menopause, estrogen levels drop, which could be why women are more vulnerable to macular degeneration and cataracts. It has been found that:

- Postmenopausal women who not undergo estrogen therapy may be at greater risk of developing macular degeneration.
- Woman who experience an early onset of menopause are at a greater risk for the disease.

Macular degeneration, also known as age-related macular degeneration or AMD, can affect normal everyday activities like recognizing faces, driving a car, reading, watching television, and identifying currency.

Approximately 25-30 million people worldwide are affected by macular degeneration.

The best way to maintain eye health is to visit your eye doctor annually for an eye exam that tests for diseases such as macular degeneration. Treatment for the wet form of macular degeneration is available, but early detection is the key to saving sight.

For information about macular degeneration, visit www.amdfacts.com or call 1-800-AMD-4636.

IN TRANSITION: SUMMER TO FALL

Summer gone in Burlington

"While over 160 students are learning and engaging in a variety of reading and writing activities, they are also having fun, which is one of the key goals of these summer programs in the school system," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Fox Hill reading specialist Mary Hamilton, who oversees the reading program at that school for grades three through five, said, 'We have tons and tons of books for the kids to read.... We like to keep it a fun, pleasant, relaxed atmosphere.'

"We try to encourage reading, make reading a happy thing," said Hamilton. "We try to keep their spirits up."

"Our main goal," Hamilton went on to say, "is to keep students' reading and writing skills up during the summer."

"The three summer programs ran through August 2, Hamilton stated. They took place five days a week from 8 a.m. to noon.

"In addition to the Fox Hill reading group that accommodates 40 students, there is a Pine Glen School reading program for students in kindergarten through Grade 2, which includes 80 youngsters, and the Francis Wyman School writing group for students in grades two through five.

"The Francis Wyman program includes 40 students, Hamilton stated; overall numbers are at a maximum."

Shaping up in Woburn

"More detailed plans for the layout of the new high school are taking shape as the architects work to combine the constraints of the site with educational needs and the preferences of the various department heads and administrators," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Current plans call for the building to retain its same essential shape, sort of an E laying on its back, but it has also been shortened and compacted. Also, previously, plans called for the stadium to be behind the school building, perpendicular to it. Now, drawings call for the stadium, planned with an all-purpose surface, to be located to the left of the new school building. The playing and practice fields are now going where the stadium was originally planned.

"The new design allows for a direct exit to the field area from the gym/athletic area of the new building, quite an extensive facility, which is, in part, supposed to be open to the public during non-school times.

"Landscaped parking areas will ring around from the side of the stadium near Salem Street to the right front of the school, taking the place of the old school once it is torn down.

"Architect Brooke Trivas of Tappe Associates noted this is the current working design, with details to be ironed out, but there are some 'deal-breakers' which, if not acceptable, could send them back to the drawing board, but that doesn't appear to be on the horizon...."

On the road again in North Reading

"Juniors and seniors at the high school will once again have the opportunity to take class trips during the upcoming school year," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"The School Committee gave its approval to two separate trips, despite the fact that one of the trips did not have the official endorsement of Superintendent Dr. David Troughton.

Arabic 101 is now a popular college course

ATLANTA (AP) — Interest in learning Arabic has soared since Sept. 11, says a Mideast specialist at Emory University, where enrollment in Arabic 101 has doubled, compared to the previous seven years.

Mahmoud Al-Batal, associate professor of Middle Eastern and South Asian studies, said that before Sept. 11, the number of Arabic programs had been growing steadily. But now Arabic courses at Emory are booked almost to capacity, which he cites as a trend at universities and colleges across the country.

The next problem, he said, is finding qualified Arabic instructors, who already were in short supply. "This is an area where instruction falls short, which I think can be blamed in part on a general lack of appreciation in the country's academic culture of the importance of language."

His Middle Eastern studies program has won a three-year federal grant, which is aimed at increasing faculty, course offerings, and community outreach of the new recruits may have been inspired by last fall's events to look for careers in U.S. security agencies, Al-Batal said. Still others are aiming at academic careers in religious studies, literature and history, or to work internationally. Some want to learn for personal reasons.

Some ideas on how to dress the special child

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) — Children with special needs have enough challenges to their self-confidence without the added burden of odd-looking clothing.

"We know as adults, when we look good we go about our day feeling good, a little more confident, a little more accomplished," said Theresa DelPriore, preschool principal at the Block Institute/Brooklyn School for Special Children, which serves developmentally delayed children and adults. "Children with special needs are no different."

Clothes that are current and stylish will help them fit in, of course, but it's important that the choices are items the child can handle independently, she said.

"A child should be able to self-dress as much as possible. Clothing shouldn't hinder a child's movement in school or on the playground, their ability to use the restroom independently or change for gym class."

The child can learn clothing selection as a skill for daily living, with the assistance of an occupational therapist. It will boost the child's confidence to let him or her select that important first-day-of-school outfit, DelPriore said.

When shopping, parents should pay attention to zippers, buttons, Velcro and elastics. Snaps at the waist are easier to maneuver than button closures, and clothes made of stretchable fabric or elastic waistbands are the easiest to pull on.

If the child needs to wear pull-on leggings or sweatpants, choose stylish tops to make the outfits more appealing.

Your child's therapist will help assess his or her current abilities and focus on strategies to help the child master the next level of complicated fasteners or shoe closures. For example, Velcro closures may help one child put on sneakers independently, while another may be ready to learn to tie laces.

You should discuss goals with the therapist, since dexterity in handling buttons and closures relates to holding a pencil, writing and other classroom skills.

Hairstyles are another consideration. A neat ponytail tied up with a pretty elastic or ribbon that will stay neat all day is a good choice for girls not yet able to brush and style their own hair. A short style may be best for children who can wash and style on their own.

"Clothing is a form of self-expression," DelPriore said. "For children with impaired speech or social skills, clothing helps convey their spirit and personality to the people around them."

Arabic From S-6

to connect to their cultural and religious heritage. And some, he said, may just want something different.

"There will probably be some leveling off of interest, but it depends always on the political and economic situation both at home and abroad," he said.

Gloucester Schooner Festival

The Eighteenth Annual Gloucester Festival will take place on Labor Day weekend, August 31-September 1. It's Gloucester's major marine event, with participating vessels coming from ports along the Eastern Seaboard.

There will be both large and small vessels - ranging from 19 feet to over 125 feet long. You will see new boats and old boats - ranging from new this year to over 100 years old.

The mayor's Race is the event of every Schooner Festival and will take place this year on Sunday, September 1, with over a dozen large schooners racing for the Esperanto Cup. Champions from 2001 ("Ernestina") and 2000 ("Pride of Baltimore") will be back to contend for the Cup.

In addition, Senator Edward Kennedy's 60-ft. schooner "Mya", winner of the 2001 Cameron Cup, will return to Gloucester to defend her title. The Mayor's race will start at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday, September 1.

Land spectators wishing to see the start of the Mayor's race can view the start from Eastern Point. Free shuttle service from Niles Beach in East Gloucester by Cape Ann Transportation Authority.

Small craft races for six classes will be held on Saturday, August 31. Small craft racing will commence at 1:00 p.m. Over 60 vessels are expected to race on August 31.

In addition to Gloucester's many year-round attractions, such as art exhibits, beaches, fishing, museums, seafood restaurants, and historical sites. Schooner Festival weekend includes entertainment for all types of interests.

This includes Saturday's Yankee fish fry and lighted boat parade, all topped off with a gala fireworks display over Gloucester Harbor. The fish fry enables the general public, including visitors and locals alike, to mix with sailors from participating schooners.

Deck tours of the schooners, musical entertainment, a complete fish dinner, the lighted boat parade, and the fireworks all make for a great evening. Sunday morning, a grand Parade of Sail is led past the Boulevard Promenade (Stacy Boulevard, Route 127) by Gloucester's own schooner Thomas E. Lannon, as the large schooners head out to sea for their race. Further information can be obtained by calling (978) 283-1601.

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

MOVIE: "SIMONE"
GRADE: **

Review: Many people think that Hollywood stars are fakes, but this movie takes it to a whole other level.

Al Pacino plays a director who, fed up with the whiny and bratty behavior of his starlet Winona Ryder, uses a scientist's new Simulation One technology to create a movie star from scratch. He convinces the male lead of the movie he is filming, played by Jay Mohr, to film his scenes separate because the new girl simply too shy to be seen in public, and that there scenes will be melded together later.

The new star, known as Simone, becomes wildly popular, and the movie becomes a statement about society as people start telling tales about they saw her at parties, spoke with her in traffic on the freeway, etc., all because Pacino's character goes to great lengths to maintain the illusion that she is real. But what happens when she is supposedly murdered, and he is the last, and only, person to ever be seen with her?

Pacino turns in another strong performance, as does Elias Koteas as the scientists who creates the technology.

MOVIE: "STUART LITTLE 2"

GRADE: ***

Review: Michael J. Fox returns to voice the tiny hero of this charming children's movie.

The computer animation is so lifelike, you'll swear that mice, cats, and birds really can talk to humans, drive cars, and complete everyday tasks that the rest of us do.

The story centers around Stuart's need to find a playmate of his own, as his older human brother, again played by Jonathan Lipnicki, grows older and wants to spend time with his own friends.

Contemporary house with intriguing appearance

The Bowman is intriguing in appearance. It's clearly a contemporary home, yet many of its exterior design elements hark back to the Craftsman era of the early 1900s.

You see it in the trademark windows: multiple panes over large, single lower panes. The garage doors, too, echo this pattern, with a row of multipaned windows capping the grid design below. Other Craftsman-style features include stone veneer wainscoting and decorative wood corbels.

Entering, you step into a wide, bright foyer with a lofty two-story ceiling. Double doors to the left open into the den, which could be used as a home office or a third bedroom, if desired. On the right, graceful columns frame openings into the living room and dining room/kitchen, linked by more columned openings to a roomy, naturally illuminated family room.

Sunlight spills into the living room through windows flanking the gas fireplace and another window on the side. In the kitchen, cupboards and counters wrap around three walls, encircling a large central work island with a conversation bar bounding the dining room. Lazy Susan shelves make corner cabinets fully accessible.

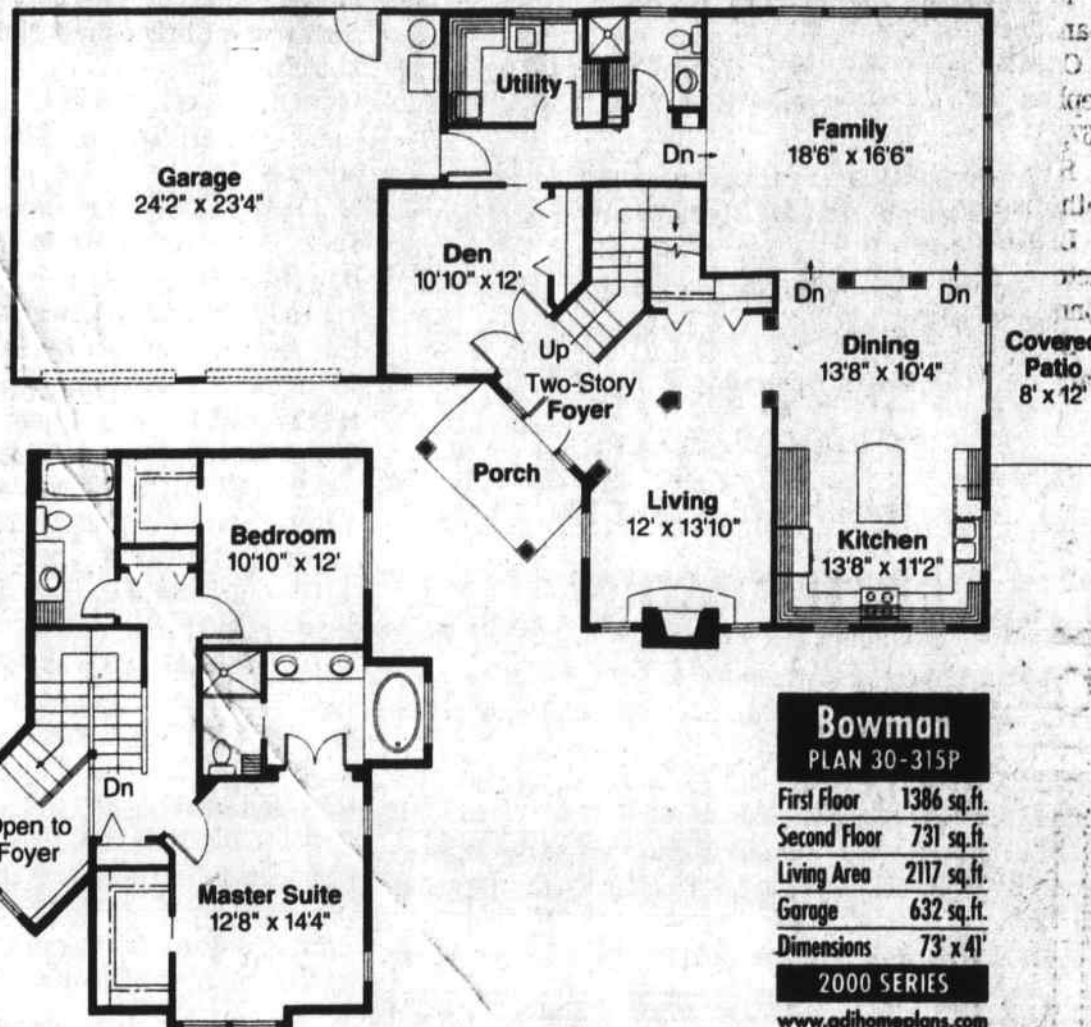

Along the side wall of the kitchen/dining room and family room, a parade of high transom windows crowns the lower windows, including the sliding glass doors that access a small covered patio.

The large utility room is outfitted with a deep sink, cabinets and a counter for folding clothes.

Bedrooms are upstairs. Both the master suite and the second bedroom have walk-in closets and private bathrooms. But in the Bowman's master suite, the closet, sleeping area and bathroom are all larger. Luxury amenities here include a spa tub, oversized shower, dual vanity and enclosed toilet.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations section and artist's conception send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Bowman 30-315P and include return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 35 homes is available for $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123.

100 years young Happy Birthday Esther!

Esther Rattray, who turned 100 years old on August 17th, is living independently at Longwood Place in part because of the residence's philosophy toward aging and its quality of care.

In 1900 life expectancy in the United States was three decades shorter than it is today. Experts estimate that the average 65-year old has another 18 years to live. Although these years may be healthy, active, and productive, a new living situation may be needed if additional resources and services are needed to get the most out of life. Esther found herself in this situation after living in her own home in Wakefield, for over 97 years.

Born Esther Lindsay in 1902, she remembers many time-consuming chores that no longer exist thanks to various inventions over the years. "My job was to keep the chimney clean, and there were chimneys in every room," she said. "We also had to wash clothes in a wringer, bathe in a tub in the kitchen and share a partyline on a phone that looked like a wooden box."

Other inventions that occurred during her lifetime were the airplane, gas, electricity, washing machines, dryers and automobiles, to name a few. Although neither World Wars I or II or the Depression affected her personally, she does wonder how the current problems with terrorism will impact her grandchildren.

Esther and her sister Bertha, age 91, grew up with a strong sense of family and community. Both girls attended Wakefield High School and attended family gatherings with other members of the Clan McPhail, a Scottish society. It was at such a meeting that Esther met her future husband, William Rattray.

Married in 1924 in the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield, Esther and William settled in Wakefield. They had two children, William Rattray Jr., now deceased, and

Jean (Fraser) now living in Longmeadow.

Esther has always led an active, independent life. She worked at John Hancock Insurance Company prior to her marriage, was a member of Eastern Star Chapter of the DeMolay in Wakefield for over 25 years where she held the positions of Worthy Matron and Senior Past Matron. Over the years, she has pursued many hobbies, including knitting, ceramics, and reading. She loves a good mystery novel!

Given her high energy and many interests, it came as no surprise that Esther was interested in maintaining as much independence as possible in her senior years. But eventually taking care of her home became too much work. "I didn't have any serious medical problems preventing me from staying in my home, but it had become too challenging to maintain," she explained. I wasn't ready for a nursing home, but I did need a little help to get through the day."

Esther and her daughter Jean decided to look for an alternative living arrangement that would protect Esther's independent lifestyle, but provide some assistance with life's everyday demands.

Wanting to stay near home, Esther visited Longwood Place at Reading. During her first visit, she ran into a high school friend, Edna Kearns who was already a resident. She also found three other residents who had been childhood friends.

Esther discovered many appealing features. She wouldn't have to shop, cook or clean since the facility's staff would be taking care of those chores. She also found out that various medical professionals could visit her as needed. The staff's welcoming attitude also went a long way toward making her feel comfortable and secure. "Longwood Place offered everything I was looking for," said Esther. "Its close ties to the Reading community made me feel at home and the amount of personal service it offered matched my needs. It would also make it easy for my sister and I to get together often since she lives at Leisure Lane in Stoneham."

"One thing that sets us apart from other assisted living facilities is our low staff turnover," said Jim Dolan, marketing director of Longwood Place. "Most of our employees have been with us since we opened five years ago. This continuity has made it possible for our residents to form close relationships with them."

Esther moved into a one-bedroom apartment in the fall of 1999. Since then she has become a part of a little "home town annex." In addition to herself, there are three or four people on her floor from Wakefield who eat together every day and visit each other frequently to play cards or talk.

While much of Esther's longevity can be attributed to her genes - other members of the Lindsay family have lived into their 80's and 90's - her sense of community at Longwood Place has also had an enormous impact on her continued good health.

Esther has received a letter from President Bush and a proclamation from the Massachusetts House and Senate congratulating her on her milestone.

Elaine Linscott new secretary of VNA

VNA of Middlesex-East & Visiting Nurse Hospice is pleased to announce that Elaine Linscott has been elected Secretary of its Board of Trustees.

Linscott, a resident of Reading, is a retired professor of nursing at Middlesex Community College. She has also held education positions at Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Winchester Hospital and Salem Hospital School of Nursing. Linscott holds a BS in nursing from the University of Massachusetts, a M.Ed in Human Development from Northeastern University and a MSN in Community Health Nursing and Administration from Salem State College.

Linscott takes on her leadership role as the agency begins a major capital campaign to support the opening of a Hospice House in Reading, a residential facility designed to provide a person with care, comfort and support in their last stages of terminal illness.

Notes From S-6

"The first trip approved was a junior class trip to Washington, D.C. planned for March 12 through March 15 and open to all class members.

"Juniors went on this trip in 2001 and it proved to be a very rewarding experience, according to Troughton. Last year the trip was cancelled due to concerns in light of the tragic events of Sept. 11.

"The trip is planned to correlate with the 11th grade curriculum, which includes U.S. History and American Literature courses.

"The committee voted unanimously to approve this trip.

"The destination of seniors will be Disneyworld in Florida, a trip initiated by the Class of 2002. The park runs a special program for graduating seniors throughout the country and it was thoroughly enjoyed this past spring by students and chaperones, including Principal Dr. Ann Papagiotas...."
